

ABSTRACT

A method of orienting an electronic functional material which comprises: a mixed material preparation step (Step S1) of preparing a mixed material from an electronic functional material and a matrix material used for orientating the electronic functional material; an orientation step (Step S2) of orientating the mixed material; and a matrix material removal step (Step S3) of removing the matrix material from the mixed material which has been oriented.